

Together with the
Breast Cancer Resource Center & Sharsheret, JFCS presents...

nice tits

Amy had a great rack. Then she got cancer.

This Off-Broadway show, direct from New York, is a reconstructive comedy about hope, love and the resiliency of the human spirit. Written and performed by Amy Marcs, directed by Peter Michael Marino, hear her personal story with breast cancer in her unique storytelling style..

This one-woman show will be followed by a panel discussion with medical & mental health professionals and breast cancer survivors.

Learn more about Amy and her show at www.AmyMarcs.com

Tickets: $20/person, available at www.JFCSonline.org

Proceeds will benefit JFCS & Breast Cancer Resource Center

For more information, contact Eden Aaronson at EdenA@JFCSonline.org

Tuesday, March 27
7:00 PM

at
HOPEWELL THEATER

5 South Greenwood Avenue
Hopewell, NJ

Linda Grenis, Chairwoman

eliminating racism
empowering women ywca
princeton